VILLAINY LAID BARE.

The Points Plainly Stated

Report of the Garcelon Investigating Committee

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

AUGUSTA Me March 18—The legislative committee inquiring into the conduct of Ex Gov Garcelon and his council have made a report. It states that Garcelon while evincing a willingness to disclose everything was infirm in his memory and failed to give satisfactory reasons for his course. When evidence was laid before him he ceased [illegible] to defend his counting out and passionately declared his own innocence and declared that a Judas among the council had done the villainy. The committee say

First—The returns were kept from the candidates contrary to usages.

Second—During such time alterations erasures and forgeries were made upon them for the purpose of counting out republicans.

Third—In ring that the defects [illegible] were surreptitiously corrected and affidavits [illegible] ed to throw out the republican returns.

Fourth—In all such cases the results were invariable they counted out the republican candidates and counted in the fusion candidates.

Fifth—This result was reached by refusing to allow republican errors to be corrected.

Sixth—The rules laid down here were strictly applied to reject republican returns and not applied to the count of fusion returns.

Seventh—Many of these rules were evidently invoked to secure a fusion legislature.

Eighth—These illegal and fraudulent acts were part of a premeditated plan to secure a fusion governor and legislature and the governor and council must have been parties to it.

Ninth—Different appropriations by the legislature have been diverted from their legitimate purposes and in many cases have been exhausted. Public funds withdrawn from the treasury by Gov Garcelon and his council without warrant of law have been applied to unauthorized purposes and for unlawful ends. A large sum of money belonging to the state remains in the hands of Gov Garcelon and other officials of last year which should be converted back into the treasury. The recklessness of management disclosed in the transactions of last year tends to destroy public confidence undermine public credit and introduce practices which if unrebuked will prove fatal to the prosperity and progress of the state.

THE ELECTION LAWS

A Plan to Settle the Long Contested Points Introduced in Congress.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

WASHINGTON, March 18—The principal feature of to-day's proceedings in congress was the presentation by Representative Springer of a proposition designed to end the present controversy over the federal election laws by providing that deputy marshals shall hereafter be appointed by federal judges and be selected for each voting precinct from two or more different political parties.

It is also proposed to restrict the appointments at each poll to a number not exceeding three. This proposition was offered by Springer after consultation with many of the leading members of his party, and as republicans from the president down have professed entire willingness to assent to any reasonable amendments calculated to add to the efficiency of the election laws and prevent their use for party purposes, there is strong reason to believe that this proposition, or something very similar, will be incorporated in the pending deficiency bill, and that it will receive the president's approval and thereby remove from the domain of congressional controversy the troublesome subject that for two years has so largely engrossed it

THE UTE SETTLEMENT.

Ouray's Opinion—He Thinks the Utes will Learn Something in a Quarter of Century.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

WASHINGTON, March 18—The committee on Indian affairs continued to-day the examination of Chief Ouray. He was asked if the agreement entered into by the government and the Utes was satisfactory to him and would be to his people. He answered that inasmuch as he had fitted up a ranch at a good deal of trouble and expense, he would prefer not to move off the reservation, but whatever would be satisfactory to his people would be satisfactory to him. There must be some difficulty in persuading some of them to move, but if it was explained to them that not all of them would have to move from Colorado, he thought they would accede to the arrangement. It seemed to him the best thing they could do in order to maintain peace. Ouray was asked if he did not fear that the whites would swindle his people and eventually get their lands if the proposed arrangement of granting them lands severally is carried into effect. He replied, laughingly "As I understand the agreement with the secretary, the lands are to be inalienable 25 years, and I think my people will learn something by that time. If not, they ought to lose them!"

MINERAL LAND LAWS.

Action of the House Committee on the Land Commissioner's Report.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

WASHINGTON, March 18—The house mining committee to-day continued their consideration of that portion of the public land commissioner's report which relates to mineral lands. A majority decided to approve the section doing away with ledge locations and in favor of the adoption of the common law system of bounding claims by vertical lines. A majority also voted to fix the maximum area of mining claims at 900 feet square or a parallelogram equivalent to these dimensions which comprise about 21 acres provided that the length shall not in any case exceed 1500 feet and to give the locater one year's time after discovering minerals within which to perfect his title by paying $2 50 per acre for his claim instead of $5 as at present. He is also to be allowed to hold his claim for twelve months by merely staking it off and applying for a survey. A minority of the committee dissent from all these propositions and the bill is still open for amendment in regard to them or any other features until the committee takes final action upon it as a whole

IMPENDING DISCLOSURES

The Wife of Minister Christiancy Proposes to get a Divorce and to Tell Some Things, Political and Otherwise, About the Old Man.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

WASHINGTON, March 18.—The Star this evening publishes the following statement with reference to its yesterday's report that divorce proceedings are about to be instituted by Minister Christiancy against his young wife. Mrs. Christiancy says she was compelled to leave Peru on account of the extreme cruelty of her husband, who even went so far as to threaten her life. She avowed to him her purpose to procure a divorce upon her return to the United States, and to make known to the world his extreme cruelty to her as well as the true inwardness of his recent bargain with the late Senator Chandler whereby the latter secured his resignation as senator in order that Chandler might be elected to fill the vacancy. Mrs. Christiancy says that the charges now made against her are instigated by Mr Christiancy's friends in order to weaken her statement of the true condition of relations between them. When both sides of the question are heard Mrs. Christiancy will not be found the guilty one. She some time ago took the preliminary steps towards procuring a divorce and it was on learning of this that Mr Christiancy's friends started stories about his wife

PIANO MAKERS' STRIKE.

Work at a Stand-still—Proposition to Replace Striking Workingmen with Chinese.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

NEW YORK March 17—The Commercial Bulletin says the lockout in the piano manufactories still continues and although at some of the factories the owners of which have joined in the movement against the union a few foremen and non union men are engaged in finishing up work is practically at a standstill. It is reported that capitalists representing several Chinese companies had offered to take the factories stock and material of the manufacturers and set Chinese at work making pianos. The men who made this offer it is said have agreed to furnish security to the amount of $3 000 000 and to furnish Chinese laborers at fifty cents a day for the first year and seventy five cents a day for the second year. Several manufacturers doubted the story and said that while with slight instruction Chinese would prove good workmen, such a radical measure could not be adopted except after careful deliberation and investigation

The house went into committee on the special deficiency bill.

Dibrell offered as an amendment that the commissioner shall not withhold pensions from any pensioner of the war of 1812 who has gained a pension under the act of 1871 and was dropped for disloyalty and reinstated by act of March 9th.

An amendment appropriating $6 665 000 for the payment of pensions was adopted.

A vote on the debate ensued on an amendment appropriating $600 000 for marshals and deputy marshals and Hiscock's amendments also extending the appropriation to special deputies.

Hiscock's amendment was defeated—[illegible] to 14.

Springer offered an amendment appropriating $[illegible] for the payment of special deputies provided that hereafter special deputy marshals [illegible] $5 per day for election work and shall be appointed by the U S circuit court judge and that not less than two nor more than three appointments shall be made for any precinct.

Hiscock and Keifer raised points of order against it which were overruled.

Weaver offered an amendment to the amendment that where there are three political parties or more three deputy marshals shall be appointed not two of whom shall belong to the same party. Adopted.

Garfield offered an amendment raising the per diem of deputies to $5.

Cox opposed recognizing a special deputy marshal and federal jurisdiction over elections. The supreme court had said that there was no such thing as federal election. For his part he would not recognize the supreme court as now packed. It was partisan and demoralized.

FROM PUGET SOUND.

Dastardly Attempt to Poison—The Skagit Mines.

[OCCASIONAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE OREGONIAN.]

SEATTLE March 18 1880

Weather delightful no rain for the past week.

Business continues dull with every prospect of better times next summer. There is every probability of a lively competition on the San Francisco ocean route during the coming summer. Opposition and a consequent reduction in fares and freights will unquestionably contribute much toward the prosperity of Seattle, and in fact all the Sound ports.

The north Seattle barrel factory commenced operations last Monday with a force of between 40 and 50 men. After the arrival of the new machinery a few months hence, for the manufacture of staveless barrels the force will be increased to 100 or 150 men.

A large force of men are at work reconstructing Little lake trestle on the S & W W R R which recently broke down with the results heretofore stated.

The steam propeller Favorite has been purchased by Vanderbilt & Co for $3350 and is being fitted up as a private yacht, it is stated for cruising in the northern waters during the summer.

The dwelling on the old Ferry farm on the Duwamish river was totally destroyed by fire on the 11th inst.

Mr Bowman of Ana Cortes Fidalgo island states that a saw and grist mill to supply the local trade of that section is very much needed and would prove a paying investment.

And still the rush Skagitward continues. No new developments however, have been made. The majority of those who have gone in during the past three months have returned after having located claims to wait until the snow melts away and the spring freshets are over. They are without exception so far as I have ascertained well satisfied with the prospect or I might say with current reports, for as was the case with an old California miner who returned from the diggings yesterday after having secured a claim and who appeared to be much elated at the prospect of the diggings when asked. Did you obtain any prospects yourself to justify such expectation inevitably reply No but I saw plainly who had. And so it generally appears to be somebody else who did it. Yet this fact does not argue unfavorably of the mines for the reason that prospecting has been rendered quite impossible by the deep snow for the past four months. At present the snow is very deep in the diggings while dangerous snow slides along the numerous canyons are of frequent occurrence. An intelligent gentleman lately from Colorado who has taken a great interest in the mines and who has investigated the matter thoroughly reaches this conclusion. He says In my judgment the mines will give employment during the next two years to 1,000 or 500 idle men. A portion of this number will make wages a few will do better while a larger number probably will not do so well. The placer diggings will ultimately lead to the discovery of rich quartz leads from which perhaps fortunes may in some cases be realized. There is no question about its being a gold bearing country. We give it opinion for what it is worth.

Between two Frenchmen named respectively A[illegible] Malardin and Joseph Lucas residents of Snohomish county bad blood has for some time existed culminating in what came near being a terrible tragedy one day last week. It seems that Lucas entered Malardin's cabin during the latter's absence and mixed arsenic with his sugar. That Marlardin subsequently returned to the cabin with a friend and that the two partook of whisky from a bottle sweetening their draughts with the sugar in question. They were soon seized with cramps and numbness of the limbs and but for the timely arrival of Dr Folsom would undoubtedly have died from the effects of the deadly poison. Lucas has since been arrested.

A new mining district has been formed on the Skagit to be known as the Granite Creek District. A code of laws have been adopted.

Extensive preparations are being made by the citizens to give a grand reception to the officers of the road on the occasion of their visit. The first passenger train arrives on Saturday night which will be received with ceremonies by the people. The side tracks turn tables and water tanks in this city will all be completed by Saturday. Construction is being pushed forward with great energy. The following telegrams have been sent by the mayor

They are supposed to have been brought from San Francisco. The dies were cast in plaster of Paris

Latest from the Skagit.

Every boat from down the Sound brings a large number of miners from the Skagit country, nearly all of whom return to the diggings with fresh supplies. Large numbers of new comers also are constantly going in. There are numerous reports concerning recent rich strikes on Granite and other creeks in circulation but, in the opinion of your correspondent they lack confirmation. The snow is still very deep in the mines while the river continues so low that boats cannot get up further than Menkler's mill from which point the trip must be made in boat or batteau to the head of navigation. The reported drowning of a miner on the river by the capsizing of a canoe on Sunday last proves incorrect. Trail contractors are now on the ground, but at last accounts had not commenced work

A DASTARDLY ASSAULT—Capt M C Wilkinson was assaulted in the church at Hillsboro on Wednesday night by an unknown ruffian the provocation being a rebuke by him of a crowd of half drunken disturbers who were interrupting the meeting by rude and indecent behavior. As the captain was in the vestibule of the church upon leaving somebody stepped up behind him and without warning dealt him a stunning blow with a slung shot or some other hand instrument and then ran quickly away, escaping without being recognized. The blow was severe and for a time Capt Wilkinson was rendered unconscious but soon recovering was taken directly to his home at Forest Grove where he is at present suffering from the effects of the hurt but not in danger. The people of Hillsboro are of course indignant at the action which has outraged a vision and disgraced their town and are of such spirit as to mete severely to the guilty wretch if he can be discovered the full measure of justice.

LATER—A dispatch to P & Oak on[illegible] received late last night says Capt Wilkinson is suffering considerably but is in no danger. The blow was a very severe one just behind the right ear and evidently made by a slung shot. The assailant has not yet been found

An Independent Judgment.

[From the Cincinnati Commercial]

THE END OF THE TETHER

WHY GRANT WILL NOT BE NOMINATED

Views of the New York Herald on the Third Term Boom as Seen in the Light of Recent Events

The following from the New York Herald on the Utica convention is a little late but it will prove of interest to those who desire to [illegible] the view taken of the Grant movement in New York by the great independent journal which aims to state things just as they are Conkling's star is still in the ascendant, but it shines with faded luster. The senator has succeeded in controlling the convention but by a [illegible] majority than his supporters expected and his opponents conceded. The [illegible] to the third term has proved altogether stronger than anybody dared to hope or venture [illegible] [illegible] twenty four hours ago. On the exact [illegible] which has been the [illegible] of [illegible] [illegible] question which has caused all the [illegible] political activity in the assembly districts during the choice of delegates, the question which was deemed paramount to every other in the estimation of both the republican factions and of all outsiders—on this central question which dwarfed and eclipsed every other Mr Conkling and his powerful machine has had a narrow escape from defeat. Day before yesterday it was claimed by the machine and virtually conceded by its adversaries that it had a majority of the delegates numbering from 135 to 140. But when the convention was brought to a vote on the vital question of declaring for the ex president the actual machine majority was found to be only 8.

Oh what a falling off was here my countrymen. Had the contesting delegations been admitted from Albany Oneida and other counties the resolution committing the convention to the ex president would have been lost.

The vote which had this mortifying result was taken immediately after Senator Conkling had made one of the most dexterous speeches ever delivered in a political convention. All the previous work of the machine in the assembly districts and all the force of Mr Conkling's eloquence barely saved the resolution from defeat. This unexpected demonstration of weakness after the machine had done its utmost, and when the great senator was on the ground to command his forces in person will encourage the anti third term republicans in other states, and especially the supporters of Mr Blaine who would have had a majority at Utica had the convention been a fair expression of the real preference of the New York republicans

The opponents of the third term in the country at large have great reason to be encouraged. Having come so near to success in New York where the tide seemed against them and the most powerful and skillfully handled political machine which exists in any state threatened like a huge Juggernaut to crush them beneath its wheels, there is no reason why they should despair in any other state. After Pennsylvania and New York, there is no state in which there exists a powerful and relentless machine to override the popular sentiment of the party. The real wishes of the people will find expression in the state conventions which are yet to be held and the machine having barely accomplished its purpose in the two great states where alone it is formidable, it looks as if there were already an end of the third term achievements unless Illinois where local pride favors the ex president should prove an exception. But these three states important as they are are entitled to only a fraction of the delegates. The total of their delegates is only 170 whereas the Chicago convention will consist of 756. If the third term schemers should get Illinois they will have gone to the length of their tether at least in the northern states and the unexpected weakness of the New York machine renders Illinois doubtful. There are chances enough for the success of some other candidate with nearly five sixths of the delegates yet to be chosen

Of course the New York delegates will not be bound by their instructions after the ex president is practically out of the field. It is competent for the national convention to release them and it will release them if there is an anti third term majority, or if the convention is close enough to annul the instructions with the votes of such Pennsylvania and New York delegates as desire to be released. There is a wide and promising field for effort by the friends of the rival candidates. If they are wise they will not make war upon one another. If each works in his own field and gets all the delegates he can their combined strength will make a majority against the ex president and his name will be withdrawn. When the aggregate strength of all the rivals has crowded the ex-president out there will be an open field and fair play for the others. The prospect looks hopeful for a rapid subsidence of the third term boom and the withdrawal of the ex-president before the national convention meets

The Third Termers Frightened.

CLEVELAND O, March —The following is a copy of a letter personally received by the Hon R C Parsons, of the Herald, from a prominent gentleman at Washington

WASHINGTON Feb 28 1880—My Dear Sir If I can judge of the present situation, I think that the managers of the Grant boom are in trouble. I believe that they are worried over the absence of spontaneity for the support of their candidate and that he will not allow his name to be used before the convention. They certainly have had no comfort out of Pennsylvania, and they are not at all happy over New York, where they confidently claimed a majority of 300 out of 400 for Grant and now they have just 37,—or, in other words instead of a three fourth majority, they have a one twelfth!

I believe from what I see and hear, that Cameron Conkling and Logan are very uneasy as to the attitude of Gen Grant when he shall have become fully acquainted with the inside and whole history of the Harrisburg and Utica conventions. There is one thing very clear to me now and that is the fact that Grant will not do any better in Illinois than he has in Indiana. The delegates 750 of them, to the state convention of Illinois, are elected on the basis of one representative for each 400 republican votes cast at the last state election. This gives the Blaine men in the strongholds of the party where they are in a big majority, the inside track and those districts in the southern part of the state all democratic and more or less under Logan's control, a back seat.

When it becomes plain to the Grant managers that they cannot get Illinois, I believe that they will withdraw his name and this will take place before the meeting of the state convention, May 19 at Springfield. When the Grant men throw up the sponge, I am inclined to think that all attempts that they make in order to bring in a dark horse will fail. The contest will be square between Blaine and Sherman.

Grant and Tilden.

[From the Louisville Courier Journal.]

It is our belief that Gen Grant is the very weakest nominee the Republicans can put in the field. His personal popularity and prestige which cannot be denied could in nowise stand the wear and tear of a campaign with the mischances and blunders of his two civil administrations for issues and the untenable third term idea for a general alignment. He would lose the foreign vote solid both German and Irish. From the first we have done what we could to encourage the republicans to this mistake, and now that the fight in the republican party has gone far enough to bring out the whole argument pro and con and to array the factions irreconcilably—we risk nothing by the declaration that in our judgment if we cannot beat Grant we can beat nobody. But on the other hand, if a republican is to be elected we had as lief to see Grant in the White House as Sherman, Blaine or Conkling. Under Grant there would be a chance of a break up of parties and in any event a strong clearly defined and wholesome opposition. Under either of the other three we should have a smart smooth continuity of the corrupt and corrupting methods of the republican machine pouring slow poison through all the veins and arteries of the body politic.

Now this view may be mistaken but it is sincere and further its rationale springs exclusively from democratic inspiration and consequently does not merit harsh criticism from democrats who may think differently

When Gen Grant was in Louisville we treated him as Kentucky and the Kentuckians are wont to treat their guests. If he should be the republican nominee for President we shall treat him with personal courtesy confining our opposition to the [illegible] and one public reasons why he should not be placed again at the head of the government. The democrat who does not see that any [illegible] coming from a journal such as the [illegible] would be one deal helping and not hurting [illegible] can see nothing and is not worth an argument.

Mr Tilden is so much more important to the democratic party than the party as a party is to Mr Tilden. It can at most disgrace itself by rejecting a man whom it knows only through his services and by rejecting and degrade itself by submitting to the dictation of a handful of factionists engineered by a renegade republican who [illegible] for Hayes and met hailed under the banner of a malignant who makes terms with Conkling to lose New York to the democratic party. Mr Tilden has no friends to reward and no enemies he would go around the corner to punish. He is beyond the age of a hot ambition. There is much in his private life and in his domestic [illegible] [illegible] to bless and charm his declining years and he can well afford to let an ungrateful party make a doubtful undesirable nomination wherever it may please to take it. With him it loses the leader who brought it its one triumph in twenty years and also the sole issue upon which it is practically united. With it he loses merely a [illegible] of blundering politicians who after he had won them a victory had not the courage or the capacity to secure it. Considered purely as the [illegible] is every reason why Mr Tilden should withdraw from that arena in which he has been made the victim of such unappreciation and injustice. But there is a principle involved which we hope Mr Tilden will consider and it is this, that warm [illegible] who think as we do that his nomination is indispensable both to the manner and to the success of the democratic party, and that when the time comes his nomination will be demanded no less by the exigencies of the situation than by the will of the masses of the people who [illegible] and wrong and mean to see the right righted

LOGAN ON THE PORTER CASE

General Logan's three days speech in the senate on the Fitz John Porter case published in full in the Congressional Record was a terrible review of the conduct of that insubordinate, jealous unsoldierly and justly cashiered officer. The facts simply are that Porter was determined not to fight under Pope, nor to obey his orders and that he disobeyed these orders in the face of the enemy. Now we have the spectacle of confederates in control of congress taking measures to thank him for his treacherous conduct and to pay him $75 000 for it. Porter's object was nothing less than to let Pope get a good beating so that McClellan might be recalled to command of the army. For fifteen days consecutively Pope was engaged with the superior forces of the enemy and Porter avoided all participation in these struggles which cost the country twenty thousand men including such officers as Generals Phil Kearney and Isaac I. Stevens. Porter's corps consisted of twelve thousand veteran infantry and three thousand cavalry and artillery. Had such a corps under command of Sheridan, or of Logan, been ordered to make an attack on the rebel flank, does any one suppose excuses would have been invented for delay, and for neglect to obey? As Logan said in his speech—and he is not a man without experience, nor incapable of judging in such a matter — "that force can double up any army like a knife blade, until it has had time to rally from the shock. A general with twelve thousand bayonets who don't give battle when he sees the flag of an enemy does not know the use of an army." That force, under Porter, had it been commanded by an intrepid officer whose heart was in the cause, would have averted the disasters of Pope's campaign by so changing events that what was a bloody failure would have been a great triumph for the national arms. It is claimed that the decision against Porter, made while all the facts were still new and accessible, should be reversed on confederate testimony, now given, that he acted wisely and well. So he did, no doubt,—from the confederate standpoint. Gen. Logan, in preparation of his great speech, had studied every part of the case most thoroughly, and no senator was able to answer him. Several who attempted by interruption to turn portions of his argument against him, quickly met with discomfiture and did not repeat the experiment. Logan showed most clearly and overwhelmingly that if the corps under Porter had been commanded by an officer earnest in a purpose to do his duty, it would have struck the rebel flank with tremendous force, crushed it, and stopped the progress of the rebel army until the other corps came up, and thus what was a frightful national disaster would have been converted into a victory. But on the contrary this fine corps was under command of a sulking and [illegible] leader; and the consequence was that hecatombs of men were sacrificed, [illegible] lost, the rebels were enabled to invade the northern states, other great battles had to be fought to expel them, and the war was indefinitely prolonged. Instead of asking before congress now for "vindication" at the hands of the confederates, and $75,000 from the national treasury, Porter should have been shot at the time of his disobedience, the punishment treading swiftly on the heels of an offense so atrocious in its intent and consequences. It is true that Porter has recently been whitewashed on confederate testimony by a board of army officers, but no whitewashing can disguise the fact that Porter didn't want to fight under Pope and didn't fight under Pope and didn't fight [illegible]. He wanted to bring about a state of things which would force the president to place the full command of the army once more in the hands of McClellan the general who always wanted reinforcements and never fought a battle that was not forced upon him.

A POT AND KETTLE WAR.

There is no doubt that it was Mr. Tilden who unearthed Mr. Bayard's secession record. This is shown notoriously by the circumstances under which it was sought and published, and also by the retaliation of Mr Bayard's friends on Mr. Tilden. The latter have brought up Tilden's anti war record, with a view to showing that notwithstanding all his professions of patriotic virtue he is in a worse position than Bayard. Really it is rather amusing to see democratic candidates trying to injure each other in this way. It is notorious that the party, as a party, opposed the prosecution of the war. It claimed that the war was inaugurated by President Lincoln, and was most unjustifiably waged for the subjugation of the south; that under the military despotism organized for the overthrow of the southern confederacy the country might expect the total loss of constitutional liberty, and that the war never could accomplish its professed objects. To recall fully the attitude of the democratic party at that time it is only necessary to mention the name of Vallandigham and to cite the resolution of the national convention which declared the war a failure. But it appears that Messrs. Bayard and Tilden are now trying to blacken each other by showing what nobody doubts of either, namely, that they were in accord with the views, purposes and intentions of their party on the issues of the rebellion.

Mr. Bayard's speech, of which so much has lately been said, and which the subterranean craft and ingenuity of Mr Tilden has brought back from the shades to plague its author, was delivered at Dover on the 27th of June 1861. This was a few weeks before the battle of Bull Run, at a time when troops were hurrying from the north to meet the gathering armies of the rebellion. Mr Bayard began by announcing in a stately and pompous manner that "eleven states have withdrawn from the federal union with solemn and deliberate action, and have united under a new government. The next step was this inquiry "Shall we make war upon and subjugate this new confederacy or shall we peacefully treat with them and consent to their self-government?" Mr Bayard advocated the latter course. "For half a century," said he, "we have lived at peace with Great Britain, with her Canadian possessions upon our northern border. Upon the south Mexico holds her government with no threats of trouble to us or our citizens. Why then may not two American confederacies exist side by side without conflict each emulating the other in the progress of civilization?" The remainder of the speech was devoted chiefly to elaboration of these views. Mr Bayard, in common with the great majority of his party, was simply giving his consent to the dissolution of the union and arguing against any attempt to suppress the rebellion.

This is the speech the republication of which is said by many eastern journals, among which are some of democratic inclinations, to have destroyed Mr Bayard's presidential hopes and to have taken him out of the list of possible candidates. But those democrats who oppose Tilden and have been looking to Bayard as the most available man meet this attempt to shelve their candidate by going down into the depths after Tilden's record. One of the things produced as a reward of his inquiry is a letter written by Tilden in 1861, shortly in advance of the date upon which Bayard's Dover speech was delivered. In that letter he said he felt it to be "a sacred duty to refuse his sanction" to any expression tending to "an appeal to the sword for the solution of difficulties between the north and south." Another document is a speech he delivered at a peace meeting in Albany, a report of which was published in the Albany Argus of February, 1861. As a democratic paper the Argus reported Mr Tilden with approval of what he said, though its report was in a condensed form. He argued strongly against coercion, showing the strength and resources of the southern states and reasoning that self interest if no higher motive should lead [illegible] to civil war that at no time [illegible] to prove [illegible] us as a nation and to bring poverty and suffering upon our own citizens. He declared that he for one would resist under any and all circumstances the use of force to coerce the south into the union first because it would be ineffective and next because it would lead to a war of extermination among those who were brethren not by ties of country alone but by blood. There is no difference whatever between this position and that of Bayard and both as matter of fact stated the true attitude of the democratic party towards the war. It would be better for both to confess the error of the position than for either to be trying to destroy the other's prospects by an accusation of a fault which was common to both. Besides the vigorous use of "you're another" Bayard's backers try to add force and point to their retort on Tilden by overhauling the record of the cipher dispatches and the income tax. Still all these things are ineffective. Tilden knows how to get all such indiscretions condoned. He reasons that though a man may have been a secessionist and was mixed up with the cipher dispatches and has beaten the government out of an income tax nevertheless if he have a barrel he shall find means far more efficacious than charity [illegible] of hiding a multitude of sins. It is plain that Bayard is getting more damage than his adversary in this pot and kettle war.

OUR PUBLIC SCHOOLS AGAIN

The papers addresses discussions and other proceedings of the department of superintendence of the national education association, a session of which was held at Washington in February of last year have recently been published in the form of circulars of information of the bureau of information. In several of these papers we find views on the subject of education which are strikingly in accordance with those which have frequently been expressed by THE OREGONIAN. A paper by Consul General John Hitz of Switzerland, on popular education in that country criticises with severity the tendency to attempt too much in the public schools which is noted in Switzerland as in America. We quote: "Half a century ago the common school did not venture beyond the catechism, and a little reading, writing and ciphering while nowadays the tendency is to rush to the other extreme intellectual gluttony would seem to have followed close upon intellectual poverty. The fact is the public school of the present aims to do too much, and the teacher, ill prepared for such work fails to do well what is assigned to him." This is a most forcible statement of the great fault of the present system. To the same effect Prof Joseph Payne is quoted as saying:

> There is much talk nowadays about "raising the standard" of education, and it would seem that some think the standard may be raised by the addition of new subjects to the curriculum of elementary instruction. If, however, the machinery of our education is defective—and the result proves that it is—giving it more work to do is surely a unique device for improving its action. The mill grinds badly and the grist is unsatisfactory and the remedy proposed is to put more corn into the hopper.

Nothing could be better than this illustration. In another paper, by Prof Walter Smith, director of art education in Massachusetts, a similar conclusion as to the inefficiency of our system is reached from another direction. We quote:

> It is a common thing to hear sensible men say as it is also frequently said in newspapers that for the duties of real life the children in the public schools are not so well prepared now as they were 20 years ago, or even 50 years ago, though they know more and it costs more to teach them while the silver tongued orator of Massachusetts has stated that under the old district school system when a boy spent a few weeks in the school in winter and worked the rest of the year on the farm he got a better, because a more practical education than he can get in the country to day. The trouble about such remarks as these is that they are true.

And in the following extract we have a statement which every candid person will recognize as well founded. It explains just why the truth of such remarks as those above quoted must be acknowledged:

> The literary part of our education, which fits for mercantile life and professions has not retrograded but advanced until it monopolizes nearly all the precious time of youth while the needs of those destined for the trades and manufactures are ignored in our schemes of education, left high and dry without aid or comfort, until the name of the native born American mechanic is a synonym for want of skill and his work for something that will not sell.

That is, under our system children are kept too much at school. Under pretense of "raising the standard of education" we are depriving our youth of instruction in industry and in the practical duties of life. We carry our public school studies too far. We spend vast sums on education without stopping to inquire whether the education is of the right sort or whether those who stand most in need of public schools obtain through them what they want. It is time these facts were met in a candid and intelligent way. We should simplify our system cut off its redundancies, keep it within reasonable limits, abandon the public high schools and get rid of the notion that it is the duty of the state to educate its youth beyond solid elementary preparation. They are the best friends of public education whose criticism tends to clear the subject of the [illegible] of fine phrases" with which it has become enveloped. It is folly to maintain a system of public education on the theory that all the youth of the country are to be fitted for literary and professional occupations. In the nature of things most of them must engage in productive and practical industry. Yet what are we doing in that behalf?

BROKEN PLEDGES

The committee of ways and means of the house of representatives has exclusive jurisdiction of all bills relating to national taxation and revenue. That committee may be said to have control of the tariff. It consists of thirteen members, whose names and politics are as follows:

Democrats	Republicans
Fernando Wood N Y	J G Garfield O
W R Morrison Ill	W D Kelley Pa
James Phelps Conn	O D Conger Mich
J R Tucker Va	W P Frye Me
R L Gibson La	M H Dunnell Minn
R Q Mills Tex
J G Carlisle Ky
W H Felton Ga

The democrats are professed revenue reformers and there being eight in the number on this committee have had it in their power to mature and report any bill to revise and reform the tariff in whole or in part. At the last national democratic convention that party held out to the country the following denunciation of the tariff and the following pledge:

> We denounce the present tariff levied upon nearly 4000 articles as a masterpiece of injustice, inequality and false pretense. It yields a dwindling, not a yearly rising revenue. It has impoverished many industries to subsidize a few. It prohibits imports that might purchase the products of American labor. It has degraded American commerce from the first to an inferior rank on the high seas. It has cut down the sales of American manufactures at home and abroad and depleted the returns of American agriculture—an industry followed by half our people. It costs the people five times more than it produces to the treasury, obstructs the processes of production and wastes the fruits of labor. It promotes fraud, fosters smuggling, enriches dishonest officials and bankrupts honest merchants. We demand that all customhouse taxation shall be only for revenue.

Yet this party which thus pledged itself has broken its promise flagrantly. Its ways and means committee has recently voted against all the measures of tariff reform to which the party was pledged. The party refuses when it has full power in both branches of congress to discontinue a policy which "obstructs the processes of production and wastes the fruits of labor." It is controlled by monopolists and it has shown its conduct that it can be counted on to redeem no pledge whatever.

Great sums of money are being spent continual[ly] on the Mississippi river from its head to its mouth. This indicates the right and propriety of making an appropriation for improvement of the Columbia. The latest Mississippi scheme is set forth in a report by the chief of engineers on the [illegible] of lakes and reservoirs for the purpose of [illegible] the upper Mississippi navigable [illegible] the summer season [illegible] It is shown that the plan is feasible and that [illegible] operation a reserve amounting to [illegible] 000 cubic feet of water can be accumulated and made available for [illegible] the depth of the river after [illegible] The cost of the proposed work is put at $400 000 to which must be added an annual appropriation for operating it.

California papers report that several corporations in that state which had been employing Chinese but had discharged them in compliance with the recent statute enacted by the legislature have now disincorporated and will shortly reopen their works and transact business as private companies. Of course this is simply an evasion of the law but it is no more than was to have been expected.

The Springfield (Mass.) Republican rises to make this rather vigorous remark: "When the New York Times after fighting Grantism for some years suddenly [illegible] under Grant's table in a banquet [illegible] we say that the great need of republican journalism is conscience."

ANALYSIS:
San Francisco, Feb. 24, 1880.
MESSRS WHITTIER, FULLER & CO:
Gentlemen—I have made a careful analysis of PIONEER WHITE LEAD, which I find to be PURE and entirely WITHOUT ADULTERATION. It has great BODY or COVERING POWER when mixed with Oil, in which it differs from some other samples of Pure White Lead I have examined.
HENRY G. HANKS, Chemist.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES

(SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN
WASHINGTON March 19—12 30 A M—
clear or partly cloudy weather

THE ORE[GONIAN] office is now connected with both telephone systems. We will consider it a favor if persons in possession of items of news will communicate them. The office will be open until 1.30 A M.

CITY

PROBABILITIES OF A JUNE FLOOD.—A man who has lived in Oregon and W[ashington] for thirty years and who has been a close observer in conversation with an Ore[gonian] reporter yesterday said: There is [some]thing remarkable about the weather this spring. I have noticed that almost every previous year we have had one or two [rises] in the Columbia before this time, and I attribute the low state of the Columbia to the uniform cold weather since New Year. I noticed from Robinson's hill last [week] that there is a much greater depth of [snow] about Mt Adams than usual and all agree that there is a very heavy fall in the entire district east of the mountains. It is altogether likely that this summer following a cold winter will be a warm one, and taking everything into consideration, indications point decidedly to a great flood next J[une].

TIME EXTENDED.—The Hayes truck and ladder which was ordered sometime ago by the common council for Vigilance Hook and Ladder Co, No 1, was expected to arrive here about the 1st of April from San Francisco, will not reach here until about the [middle] of next month. The truck is being manufactured in San Francisco. A few days since the manufacturers asked for an extension of 15 days on the time specified in the contract for the completion of the truck and necessary apparatus. The committee met and water granted the extension desired and so notified the manufacturers.

U S. CIRCUIT COURT.—Judge Deady will deliver an opinion in this court this [morning] in Lauria v Stratton et al, and announce decision in McKenzie v Hamilton on the exceptions to the bill in U S v [illegible] et al, No 536 upon the motion to change attorney in Nightingale et al v the Oregon Central R R Co and the motion to set same cause for hearing; and the app[lication] to lease the road in the Pacific Rolling Mills the Dayton S & G. R. R Co. et al.

STEAM LAUNCH LUELLA.—The little launch Luella has been leased by Messrs [Da]vidson & Dent, contractors, and will be taken to The Dalles. The Luella will run up and down the river to points above and below The Dalles, and be used for delivering provisions to the various cutters' camps. She will be taken to the Cascades Wednesday, and taken over the portage on a flat car to the upper landing.

OLD RAILS TO BE REROLLED.—The [steamer] [illegible] steamed to the east side depot yesterday morning and took on board a large quantity of old rails from the O. & C. R. R. [which] will be taken to the rolling mills at San Francisco and returned shortly to be laid on the new extension at Silverton and Lebanon.

ANOTHER LODGE OF A. O U. W.—Arrangements are being made to organize another lodge of Ancient Order of United W[orkmen] in this city. So popular has the order become that four large lodges flourish here and within a week a fifth will probably be installed.

COMING TO PORTLAND.—Capt. [illegible] had command of the ship Orpheus which collided with the ill fated steamer Pacific five years ago, off Cape Flattery, is on his way to this port. He has command of the ship Wildwood.

TO VANCOUVER.—John Maguire's company appear this evening at C[ouncil's] theater, Post Vancouver, in the popular emotional play "East Lynne." They appear tomorrow night at the same place in "Pygmalion and Galatea."

THE "ALDEN BESSE."—Advices from Hong Kong bring the information that the American bark Alden Besse is advertised to sail for New York. It was generally supposed that she would be kept in the Portland-Hong Kong trade.

DELINQUENT CITY TAXES.—The delinquent city tax list was placed in the hands of [illegible] Lappens yesterday, and those who have not liquidated can save further cost by paying their tax at police headquarters within [a] day.

VERY ILL.—The many friends of Mrs Evans, widow of the late Wm. M. [Evans] will be pained to learn that she is lying at her residence, corner of Fifth and [illegible] streets, very ill with pneumonia.

JOHN E. OWENS.—Madame Rumor [has it] that the world famous comedian and his wife, Mrs. John E Owens, will soon appear at the New Market for six nights only.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT.—Chaplain Sto[ll] desires to acknowledge the receipt of an anonymous donation of $10 to the Bethel, received through last night's mail.

ROBBED OF $650.

G W Backus an Old Resident of Hood River Loses that Amount on Board the Cascade Boat Wednesday Night.

A ROOM-MATE ACCUSED OF THE THEFT.

Wednesday G W Backus, a resident of Hood river, and formerly of Linn county came to this city from Albany, bringing with him in notes and checks about $6000 the proceeds of the sale of a farm He had a check of $716 cashed at the First National bank and expended about $50 in purchases A man who gives his name as J J Kelly struck up an acquaintance with Backus and begged the latter to pay his fare to The Dalles The old man who was somewhat under the influence of liquor kindly consented, and they took a stateroom together on the Cascade boat Wednesday night Backus having his money in a purse in his pocket About 3 o'clock in the morning the old man awoke and found that his room-mate and his money were gone He immediately arose, went to the police headquarters and reported his loss. Kelly was arrested by officer Stephenson about 7 o clock yesterday morning, and is now confined in the city jail He will have a hearing before Judge Stearns at 1 o clock this afternoon

Kelly is unknown to the police authorities here, and is evidently a recent arrival He had no money about his person when arrested, and it is supposed that he has given it to a confederate.

LECTURE ON THE CHEMISTRY OF FOOD.

The chapel of the Unitarian church was filled Wednesday evening with listeners to the fifth Social Science lecture, by Dr Rex The lecture was preceded and followed by excellent musical exercises kindly furnished by a large number of the high school pupils under direction of Mr Warren Dr. Rex spoke for three quarters of an hour in an easy vein of some familiar chemical facts regarding the composition and preparation of foods. Starch, fat and albumen were successively described, and the processes through which they pass in order to be digested were detailed The principle underlying the proper preparation of food, as in cooking etc., was defined This preparation should be in the line that nature sets up, when the same food is introduced to the system without preparation. Digestion is facilitated by a finely divided state in the food to be digested So the wheat is ground and the flour treated so as to further separate all the starchy particles. The action of yeast or gas producing powders in aerating dough, was described and the effect of heat in restoring food to its elements was illustrated by an experiment showing how vapors of water nitrogen etc, were passed over and pure carbon remained Another preparation of food is that which prepares its temperature for easy digestion The lecturer animadverted severely upon the habit of eating superheated food and described a certain plate of soup into which he introduced a thermometer which had not high enough scale to indicate its heat The system he said readily accommodates itself to "cold victuals," but the whole digestive apparatus suffers when food exceeds in temperature a certain point. Other subjects such as the chemistry of light in the household and of warmth as well as such themes as food adulterations wall papers, etc. were not treated for lack of time The sixth lecture will be given by Mr Shattuck formerly judge of the supreme court Wednesday, March 31

THE MONICK TRIAL

Proceedings at Vancouver last Week.

The Vancouver Independent of the 18th inst gives the following account of the trial of Frank Monick for the murder of Joseph Reed which took place there last week

N H Bloomfield, district attorney appeared in behalf of the territory and Wm Strong and Thos. N Strong for the defendant. The crime in this case was committed in October 1875 the defendant fled into Oregon, where he remained until sometime during the year 1879, when he was apprehended and brought back into the territory He was indicted at the last June term of the Kalama court and his case removed on a change of venue to Vancouver The crime was committed near Cathlamet in Wahkiakum county and as Monick and Reed both had many friends a deep interest was manifested by the people of that county A great number of witnesses were examined, from whom there was much conflicting testimony This part of the case continued until after 11 o clock A M of Saturday at which time Mr Bloomfield commenced his argument. He was followed by Judge Strong and his son Thos. N Strong for the defendant The closing argument by Mr Bloomfield was begun about 5 o'clock in the afternoon and continued for two hours and a half It was without doubt one of the ablest he ever made He argued the law to the court in a masterly manner and to the jury reviewed the facts forcibly and eloquently exhibiting oratorical powers of the highest order The jury were kept together from the time they were empanneled and were very much fatigued before the close of the trial During the charge of the court one of them fainted and was taken from the court room but he soon revived and took his place in the jury box At 11 o clock P M they returned a verdict of murder in the second degree The punishment will be imprisonment in the penitentiary at hard labor not less than ten nor more than twenty years

THE OREGON CITY SCHOOL CASE

The Oregon City school contest came up yesterday before Judge Bellinger in chambers, upon a petition for a writ of mandamus

Our readers will recollect the facts of the case as published at the time namely that 183 votes were cast of which 9 were cast by married ladies Two of three directors declared these votes illegal and one protested against this claiming them to be legal If these married women have a right to vote Dr Norris was elected and if they have not Dr Welsh was elected. The record kept by the clerk and signed by him and the chairman of the meeting Hon John Myers shows these facts Since then Dr Norris has qualified as director W H Pope having a claim against the district presented to the clerk a warrant signed by one of the old directors and Dr Norris

The clerk refused to pay upon the ground that Dr Norris was not elected director as it appears by the record Thereupon Mr Pope filed a petition for a mandamus Mr Welch was present on account and Mr Shelton was allowed to object to trying the question whether a director in such proceeding alleging that this question could not be tried except by quo warranto. At any rate the matter was finally set down for argument

B th J N rr s and Dr W lch the directors were allowed to vote who cast their ballots under the provision which they claim bars married women from voting applies equally to all females The probability is that there is a little bit of politics mixed up in the matter somewhere which will develop hereafter In case the court shall determine to hear the present petition argument will be heard on the question of the right of women to vote next week

THE ALBANY TRAGEDY

The Examination of Frank Wheeler for the Killing of Charles Taylor The Defendant Held to Answer the Charge of Manslaughter

Frank Wheeler who shot and killed Charles Taylor in a saloon in Albany last Monday night had a preliminary examination before Judge Flinn on

The state was represented by Prosecuting Attorney White, assisted by W R Bilyeu Messrs Flinn & Chambers and J C Baker and H H Hewitt appeared for the defendant

The shooting was the culmination of a quarrel between Wheeler and Taylor. Wheeler came down to the saloon and Taylor asked

The conversation thus far had taken place in the back room of the saloon Wheeler then got up and started to go into the bar room in the front of the building Taylor followed him Some conversation was had when Taylor pulled off his coat and said he could lick any striker who meddled in his family affairs Wheeler started to go out at the front door and Taylor called him back to come back as he wished to speak to him

Wheeler stated that he went to the state while he Taylor was working the next day and he would talk the matter over with him Taylor was asked if he had anything to say and Taylor replied that If I had any one fooling with my wife I'd cut his —

Wheeler had his hand in his vest pocket A few moments Taylor rushed at him with his hand raised At this movement Wheeler retreated a few steps and drew out a revolver from his left pocket fired The ball took effect in the neck Immediately on receiving the shot Taylor reeled and fell Wheeler after shooting ran out through the centre door but observing that Taylor had raised up on his elbows he advanced toward the prostrate man and fired a second shot The ball entered the breast and killed Taylor almost instantly

Several other witnesses were examined including Gilmore and Watkins the proprietors of the saloon Their testimony corroborated in the main the evidence of Biggs

The case was summed up by the attorneys and the court adjourned until Wednesday morning at 10 o clock Wednesday forenoon the court convened when Judge Flinn held the prisoner to await the action of the grand jury in the sum of $ 000 on the charge of manslaughter

ST. PATRICK'S DAY AT SALEM

Interesting Vocal and Literary Exercises at Reed s Opera House.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE OREGONIAN]

SALEM March 18

While the Irish citizens of Salem indulged in no parade or street demonstration the observance of St Patrick s day was none the less pleasant in that it was made an opportunity for citizens of all classes to enjoy a first class musical and literary entertainment and at the same time contribute their mite towards alleviating the sufferings of the destitute in Ireland The opera house was well filled on the evening in question our citizens regardless apparently of sect or creed evincing a willingness to aid in the common cause The exercises were of unusual interest and consisted of the rendition of rare musical and literary gems by local talent, assisted by Hon S J McCormick of your city The instrumental exercises by Misses Maria F D Arcy Sarah Murphy Lillie Byrne Mamie Coffey and others were of high order and highly creditable to the performers Miss Teresa E D Arcy made her first appearance before the public as a vocalist, and in her rendition of the Beautiful Isle of the Sea surprised even her most enthusiastic admirers She has an excellent voice over which she has remarkable control and her debut was certainly a flattering one Miss Ella Mason and M N Chapman, Esq were also recipients of well earned applause at the conclusion of their respective solos Mr P H D Arcy and Mr W M Kaiser were fortunate in their brief addresses and succeeded in both entertaining and instructing their hearers Their remarks were well timed and to the point. Miss Nellie Bernardi took the house by storm in her recitation— St. Patrick's Day —delivering it with exquisite effect which was appreciated, as shown by the applause granted her Master Willie D Arcy recited that touching poem Give me Three Grains of Corn Mother," in good style Mr McCormick then favored us with an hour's sketches of Ireland in song and story which proved a genuine treat and was enthusiastically received by the audience who interrupted him from time to time with vociferous applause The speaker has the happy faculty of introducing mirth and pathos in quick succession, and his efforts on this occasion were certainly among his best. Miss Mary McCormick presided at the piano with her accustomed skill The entertainment throughout was a very pleasant affair, and reflected great credit upon the managers

Price.

All lots will be sold at $1 each payable in installments of $ per month or the whole sum at once. No interest will be charged and a Warranty Deed upon the last installment both will be given

Appreciation of Values

By reference to property has advanced twenty five per cent during the past year As there has been no excitement, the rise is wholly attributable to the increasing immigration growing confidence inspired by railroad enterprises and the development many natural resources that have hitherto been retarded for lack of energetic men to develop them

It is True.

That of all real estate investments the Homestead plan is the best and safest for all who invest are interested in making the whole property more valuable To illustrate suppose A builds a house on his lot and B owns a lot adjoining B gets the benefit of A s improvement while A is not injured thereby This philosophy will apply to the entire property

We have donated a lot to each of the principal churches for church purposes

In addition to the above two lots are set apart for public school purposes

Division.

The division of this property will take place when the lots are all sold or in any event not later than the 28th February, 1881,

at the Mechanics Pavilion commencing at 10 o'clock A M public notice of which will be given by publication in two principal journals in the State

It will be made in the manner decided upon by a majority of the purchasers in the Homestead. Parties interested may appoint proxies to act for them if they desire to do so Parties who do not attend at the time of the division either in person or by proxy will be bound by the plan settled upon by the majority of those who do so attend

It is suggested by the purchasers that division might be made by placing the number of each lot and block in a wheel or box and the name of each party interested in the homestead in another —then a name will be drawn from one and a number from the other and the lot so drawn deeded to the person whose name is so drawn when all payments are made.

All but the first installment must be paid at the Banking house of Ladd & Tilton in the city of Portland

Persons from a Distance

Desiring a share may forward $1 50 to the General Manager and a bond will be immediately forwarded

FRIDAY MORNING MARCH 19 1880

CONTRASTS

No shadow could come were it not for the sun
And the night would be night no more,
If the golden ray of the gladsome day
Had not gladdened the earth before
Were it not for the winds and the piercing cold
The lambs would not value their sheltered fold
Nor the outcast his cheery blaze.
So the gloomy clouds that enwrap the earth
But give to enjoyment a brighter birth
When it comes to the golden days

There's a mission of sorrow and weary woe
For the life tides ever must come and go
As they break with a murmur of dull command
On the shingled reach of the shining sand
And the calm were it not for the rising gale
Would be dull as the sound of a twice told tale
While the echoes of sounding joy
Acquire new sweetness from sorrow's song
And the notes that a mission of pain prolong
To an anthem without alloy

Then murmur not at the harsher lot
That saddens the weary heart
For the sunbeams form a rainbow arch
From the tears that often start
And the years may not forever fill
A cup that is brimmed with seeming ill
Though its contents bitter blend
While the life that stretches far away
Has sunset tints in its twilight gray
And flowers at its far her end

MISCELLANEOUS SMILES

An urchin who had begged a penny of an old toper in vain, rewarded him with this advice: "Don't you carry that nose o' yourn near to no powder factory or they might turn the hose onto yer"

The wide leather belts recently so popular with the fair sex have disappeared from the street, and hundreds of husbands are now strapping their razors on leather that once encircled their wives' waists.

Mr. Daniel Pike, a Maine wit and democrat, says irreverently Garcelon had been told times enough that he was a —— fool but he never would believe it until he got a certificate from the supreme court

"Ah, me," said a pious old lady "our minister was a powerful preacher for the short time he ministered the word of God among us, he kicked three pulpits to pieces, and banged the in'ards out of five bibles

"There are seventeen and a half men to every female in the territory of Dakota" "Well," said Miss Jones, spinster when she read the above item "if girls knew what I know, they'd take that half man rather than none at all."

In a little family discussion, the other day, the madame remarked somewhat tartly, "When I marry again—" "I suppose you will marry a fool," interrupted the husband "Beg your pardon," said she, "I shall do nothing of the kind, I prefer a change."

ENGLAND BLOWS.

Scio, March 17, 1880

To the Editor of the Oregonian

I see by your dispatches that "England blows" because she is driving us out of the Chicago trade. That is, she blows because we, by our protective tariff, discourage exports. She will blow more before long if our suicidal policy of protective tariff is not repealed.

We are like the boys swapping jack-knives at big prices—between themselves We can not carry on a foreign trade on any such basis. England will regain our markets throughout the world, and a financial depression is sure to come. A nation cannot live within itself and lock up its resources P

It Caused a Lively Breeze.

[From the Vancouver Independent]

The publication by The Oregonian of the [illegible] letter totally demoralized the city of [illegible], for ever since half of the inhabitants have been cussing while the other half [illegible] and danced in glee. It don't seem [illegible] great deal of music to start [illegible] either way, provided the music is [illegible] brand.

[From the Olympia Standard]

[illegible] believe that even those who are the [illegible] blinded by partisan zeal can get a [illegible] of the wires by which they are pulled [illegible] thither to serve the purposes of a [illegible] demagogues, too high-toned to [illegible] way to obtain a livelihood by [illegible] which their dupes are compelled to earn their daily bread.

Wisconsin Remembers It.

[From the Chicago Tribune.]

[illegible] boom in Wisconsin is very [illegible] for good reason. In no state in [illegible] have the republicans better cause [illegible] and deplore the influence of [illegible] second administration than in [illegible]. The republican party had carried that state "without a skip" from 1854 to [illegible] period of nineteen years by majorities ranging from 3000 to 23 000, but the [illegible] and back-pay act, the credit mobilier scandals, the whisky ring thievery, the [illegible] crookedness of Belknap and other [illegible] of the cabinet, the suspicion cast [illegible] the president by the conduct of his private secretary,—all conspired to create disaffection among the honest and patriotic supporters of the republican party. For this [illegible] the republican party in Wisconsin suffered an ignominious defeat in 1873, which [illegible] repeated in a milder form in 1875

Kicked by the Golden Calf.

[From the Cincinnati Commercial.]

There is a rumor that Gen. Tom Ewing has [illegible] streak of luck and made money enough [illegible] largely a bloated bondholder. It [illegible] that as he goes up as a capitalist [illegible] may go down as a moralist until he [illegible] gold bug. In this connection, also, [illegible] that Milton Saylor has struck a bonanza and is rolling, so to speak, in wealth

Domestic Produce.

The week under review this evening has not [illegible] by any exciting features in the produce market. Wheat has been coming forward in [illegible] limited quantities buyers doing but a [illegible] of the business done a month ago The [illegible] in the volume of transactions is attributable to the fact that the surplus accessible [illegible] the country roads are better is light, and in [illegible] to the fall in prices, good valley being now [illegible] at $1 82½@1 85, against $1 95 on the corresponding date last month Walla Walla is still [illegible] in considerable quantities, but in this [illegible] there is not much which can be purchased [illegible] at current rates. There are two or [illegible] to arrive offered for charter but no [illegible] is shown to take them up at even the [illegible] which are quoted The vessels in port [illegible] only five, of which one has completed [illegible] and the grain for the others under charter is [illegible] to be nearly or quite all where the charterers can lay their hands on it. This state [illegible] quiescence will continue as long as [illegible] remain as at present, as there is [illegible] speculative spirit abroad, and millers [illegible] have enough to fill all orders for [illegible] which exhibits no activity in the direction [illegible] exports, though a fair local trade prevails. Some [illegible] from east of the mountains are not indicative of the increased yield of that section which [illegible] expected, owing to the lack of rain and the [illegible] of continued cold weather keeping the [illegible] frozen and preventing the amount of [illegible] expected to be done during the winter

Flour, as before remarked, is dull and agents of [illegible] have been disposed to cut under regular quoted prices in order to place their surplus. Shipments are light as the mills here in some [illegible] ask rates above San Francisco exclusive of freight. Many of the millers bought wheat for [illegible] season's grinding when the market was up and will have to hold their product for an advance or sell at a loss.

There is a fair local demand for oats and prices are a little firmer, railroad building having begun it is expected that consumption of this grain will [illegible] so that prices will be kept up the remainder of the season

Hay, mill feed, etc., is in fair supply and prices steady at the figures given below

Potatoes dull and unchanged with ample receipts to meet the local trade from which comes the only demand

Provisions are firm and the supply in sight said to be no more than will meet the increased inquiry which is expected.

Dairy products in moderate supply and prices for choice butter and cheese steady at quotations the local trade taking up most such lots offering, while some of inferior quality, finding no profitable sale here, has been sent to San Francisco, giving the Oregon product a bad name.

Eggs have fluctuated during the week as supply has been light or full Early in the week large receipts reduced prices to [illegible] but a temporary scarcity again sent [illegible] up to [illegible] though the long continuance of this figure is not probable

The market for poultry is firm and dealers are paying better prices than last week

Hides are coming forward pretty freely many of them apparently of cattle which have died from exposure and starvation Such dry [illegible] rates which for green salted are [illegible] per pound and [illegible] dry [illegible]

The wool market has not changed its aspect materially since last week and though prices in the east have not advanced during the week they have been steadily maintained at the figures last given The special correspondent of the [illegible] Reporter at Boston telegraphs that the wool market is steady and firm prices with moderate sales Fall clip [illegible] of Oregon wool [illegible] immediate prospect of a change in rates

THE MARK LANE REPORT

The Mark Lane Express in its weekly review of English crops and markets under date of March 16th says

The weather has been [illegible] the heaviest [illegible] and [illegible] being [illegible] [illegible] equally favorable [illegible] mises as to the probable frosting of the autumn sown wheat have in most cases proved [illegible] ed Farmers have been busy with field work The spring trade has not [illegible] been [illegible] [illegible] of home grown wheat were very small Inferior wheat met with little attention but fine parcels maintained last week's prices both in London and at the country markets

Imports of foreign wheat have again been quite moderate principally American At the beginning of the week lower prices [illegible] from American unsettled trade and checked the buoyant feeling which was beginning to prevail The [illegible] during the last few days has been undecided Millers in the face of light [illegible] depleted [illegible] stocks adhered to the plan of only buying from hand to mouth The position of trade is difficult to gauge as although the enormous requirements of this country between now and harvest are universally admitted the demand has shown few signs of improvement and the question is whether England can stand longer the gradual consumption of stocks or America the enormous expenses of storage Arrivals at ports of call have been small Wheat tended downwards early in the week but the demand subsequently improved and prices advanced 1s 6d per quarter American offers of wheat for shipment have been more restricted Holders ask higher prices and buyers here show more disposition for business Prices close fully one shilling per quarter dearer for red american for prompt shipment Australian and California remain steady Sales of English wheat last week were 24,521 qrs. at 44s 8d against 61,531 qrs at 39s 7d per qr for the same week last year Imports into the United Kingdom during the week ending the 6th were 650 116 cwts wheat and 159 885 cwts flour

DR. PAUL M. BRENAN

The Most Successful Physician on the Pacific Coast

IN THE TREATMENT OF ALL

CHRONIC AND DIFFICULT DISEASES

DR. BRENAN WILL GUARANTEE TO CURE any form of Disease of the general vital organs [illegible] private disease

He has become an expert in the treatment of disease weakness and derangement of the reproductive organs of both male and female including diseases caused by the

FOLLIES OF YOUTH,

such as SPERMATORRHEA or SEMINAL WEAKNESS or LOSS OF PERFECT VITALITY Nearly two thirds of all the Chronic Diseases spring either directly or indirectly from some derangement of the sexual system and yet this subject is neglected by the majority of the Medical Profession

I know that persons who are unfortunate enough to be afflicted by any form of sexual disease have a delicacy in calling upon the proper physician in time, from a sense of modesty and sometimes from ignorance and permit their diseases to exist until their constitutions become corrupted their organization broken down and the hope of future happiness blighted until death becomes a welcome messenger to carry them out of their miserable existence

Everything strictly confidential under all circumstances

Lost manhood perfectly restored

Catarrhal DOSSA

Wei De Meyer's Treatise on Catarrh explains the following important facts

1 That Catarrhal Colds become a poisonous infection at first local and finally constitutional

2 That [illegible] the infection beyond the reach of mere local remedies

3 That impurities in the nostril are necessarily swallowed into the stomach and inhaled into the lungs thus poisoning the Digestive Respiratory and Genito Urinary Organs

4 That Catarrhal virus follows the mucous membrane and causes Deafness Dyspepsia Chronic Diarrhea Bronchitis Leucorrhea and Consumption

5 That Smokes Douches Inhalations and Insoluble Snuff cannot possibly remove this infectious inflammation from the organs named

6 That an antidote for Catarrh must possess an inoculative affinity for and the quality of being absorbed by the purulent mucous wherever located

Based upon these plain theories Dr Wei De Meyer's Catarrh Cure has proved to be infallible It not only relieves it cures Catarrh at any stage Home testimony
